

Tom Faruk Akel

Faruk Akel graduated from Yildiz Technical University as an Electrical Engineer. He speaks German and English. When he was working as an intern in Germany in 1982, he took courses in Management Improvement Technics and Marketing Management. He started his business life as an Active Sales Employee and Sales Engineer while he was still a college student. He worked as Mid-Level Manager, Senior Manager, Managing Director and as member of the Executive Board at the group companies. After he established his own engineering company, he successfully commenced projects with a German company. As a result of a new job offer from a multi-national German company, he returned back to his career. He took courses of High-level Marketing Management, Leadership Coaching and Trainer of the Trainer. Apart from high-level management role, he also took in charge as founder/manager of an Academy, trainer and leadership coach. Faruk Akel, has completed the "Master Coach" Training Programme in the "The Forton Group", which is the highest rank of Coaching Training Programme. He is a professional coach, member of ICF International Coaching Federation and a management consultant. He still works as Business Development and Marketing Manager for Rigips Alci Sanayi ve Ticaret A.S. a sub-company of Saint-Gobain Group which is based in France and is one of the biggest 100 industrial entities in the world.